

DISCERNING LEADERSHIP WORKSHOP FOR THE CONSECRATED

Duration	: 12 days (December 03 [Tuesday evening] to 15 [Sunday morning]).
Eligibility	: Open to consecrated men and women in leadership positions.*
Medium of Instruction	: English

Course Description

Pope Francis has made “discernment” one of the key concerns of his papacy and called upon religious congregations to develop a culture of discerning leadership. Such leadership involves exercising the service of authority in a synodal, responsible, and transparent way at all levels (ecclesial, congregational, provincial and local). ICLS offers DLW-C specially targeting consecrated men and women with leadership responsibilities, in order to train them in the theory and practice of Discerning Leadership, after the heart of the Good Shepherd, to become leaders with the smell of the sheep.

“A sign of a good leader is not how many followers one has, but how many leaders one creates.”
(Mahatma Gandhi).

Objectives of DLW-C

- To promote among religious leaders a Christ-centered and person-oriented leadership style at all levels (ecclesial, congregational, provincial, and local).
- To help create a “culture of discernment” in congregations.
- To help participants grow as individuals and as consecrated, responsible for communities and ministries.
